

2020 SAMPLE Three-Day Seminar Schedule

Straight from the Sources: Women in Eighteenth-Century Virginia

This seminar explores the lives, roles, and perspectives of eighteenth-century women. Participants will pursue a deeper understanding of women's contributions and constraints during the time leading up to the American Revolution.

As a result of this seminar, teachers will be able to:

- Analyze and integrate primary sources, secondary sources, and technological resources focused on women's lives during the eighteenth century.
- Define traditional opportunities, responsibilities, and roles for women in public and private spheres.
- Compare and contrast women's roles in various levels of eighteenth-century society.
- Create opportunities for continued professional development in social studies education with fellow teachers and Colonial Williamsburg educators.
- Experience 19 program contact hours.

Compelling Questions:

- What do primary sources tell us about the lives of eighteenth-century women?
- How were women's roles in eighteenth-century society proscribed? How did those roles compare with their everyday reality?
- In what ways did women contribute to their families and communities in the eighteenth century?

Day 2

7–8:00 a.m. Breakfast

8:00 a.m. Travel by Bus to Historic Area Woodlands Hotel Lobby

8:30 a.m. Reading the Evidence of Eighteenth-Century Textiles Collections

Like a rare book filled with information about the past, an 18th-century textile can be gently taken off the shelf, studied, and returned for another researcher to experience. Because these textiles were often made, used, and owned by females, they illuminate the lives of people often overlooked in written history: the girls and women who lived during the 17th, 18th, and 19th centuries. This session provides a rare opportunity to study early American schoolgirl needlework projects, quilts, and small textile accessories to learn how these artifacts can help us better understand the 18th-century world of women.

9:30 a.m. Break & Travel

9:45 a.m. Remembering the Ladies Rockefeller Library

Analyze print and manuscript materials from Colonial Williamsburg's Special collections to understand the lives of eighteenth-century Virginia women.

10:45 a.m. Break & Travel to Historic Area

11:00 a.m. Lunch & Exploration in Historic Area

During your exploration time today, we suggest visiting one or more of the following sites: Charlton's Coffeehouse, Governor's Palace, Governor's Palace Kitchen, Raleigh Tavern, or the Courthouse. All open sites will be marked with a flag. Check out the Colonial Williamsburg app for more information!

2:00 p.m. People and Pockets of the Past Classroom

Examine the daily lives of eighteenth-century Virginians, from the gentry to the middling sort to slaves, using a variety of primary sources and artifacts. Discover how these individuals contributed to our continuing American debate.

3:00 p.m. Break

3:30 p.m. Meet a Person of the Past: An Enslaved Virginian Classroom

Meet an enslaved Virginian who lived in eighteenth-century Williamsburg. Discuss what life and work was like in the capital city and how it compared to that of the enslaved living in rural areas.
